GRANDVIEW TRAIN TRANSFER

An exhilarating train ride allows you to experience Alaska's pristine natural beauty in a truly unique way as you travel from Anchorage to Seward for your embarkation.

Relaxing in the comfort of your rail car, you'll be simply awed by the pristine wilderness passing by during this delightful 4½ hour journey that travels over 114-miles of spectacular terrain. The train's single level dome cars make for excellent viewing of the beautiful Alaskan scenery that includes majestic glaciers and massive ice fields. Sit back and enjoy a complimentary coffee while keeping a watchful eye out for wildlife sightings, which are not uncommon along the train's route.

Please note: The transfer is only available to guests with flights arriving at the Anchorage Airport prior to 11:30 a.m. and departs from the Ted Steven's Anchorage International Airport train station. For your convenience, your check-in for the ship will be done while on board the train.

As there are no overhead or storage bins for carry-on luggage in the passenger cars, only luggage that can be held on your lap is permitted on the train. All other luggage will be checked and returned at the end of your train transfer. Incidental food and beverage items may be purchased aboard the train with a major credit card; however, cash and traveler's checks are not accepted as payment.
